

TRANSISTOR SIZING

Abstract:

A combined heuristic and mathematical programming approach to transistor sizing is presented. A fast heuristic algorithm is used to obtain an initial sizing of the circuit and convert the transistor sizing problem into a nonlinear optimization problem. The problem is then solved, in spaces of reduced dimensionality, by mathematical programming techniques.